STYLE & REFERENCE MANUAL

2026-2027 Edition Postsecondary | Secondary

Digital Solutions has established a standard style for all documents that are produced for the Workplace Skills Assessment Program. These styles can be found on the following pages. Please review the styles carefully in preparing the Workplace Skills Assessment Program documents. Documents must be prepared using the formats specified in this manual. The Style & Reference Manual is the final authority for scoring Competitive Events.

Formatting Notes

- Documents in the Style & Reference Manual may not show the correct top margins due to the instruction box at the top of the page.
- Use left justification of documents unless otherwise indicated.
- Use a 12-point Times New Roman font unless otherwise indicated—including headers, footers, and footnotes.
- Default line spacing should be single spaced.
- Default paragraph spacing before and after should be 0 pt.
- Spacing Guidelines:
 - One or two spaces may be used between the two-letter state abbreviation and the ZIP code.
 - One or two spaces may be used following the end-of-sentence punctuation.
 - One or two spaces may be used after a colon.
 - For a dash, use either the dash key or two hyphens (no spaces before, between, or after).
 - Spacing must be consistent throughout the document.
- When using the abbreviation for Post Office in an inside address, it should be as follows: P.O.
- Numbers one to ten should be spelled out. Use Arabic for 11 and higher. The exception is in medical reports. Arabic is to be used for all ages, dosages and frequencies, lab values, etc. as indicated in Association for Healthcare Documentation Integrity (AHDI) guidelines.
- In a series, the comma before the conjunction is optional.
- Main and subheadings should be keyed in boldface in all documents except in the report format.
- Header and footer margins are .5" unless otherwise indicated.
- All signature lines will be 2".
- Enumerations and bullets should be double spaced and formatted the same way in letters and memos. (See memo for example.)
- All long quotes are indented .5" from the right and left margins.
- For reports: MLA Style should be followed. Bullets should not be used. Enumeration may be used.
- When you alphabetize your works cited, treat numbers in titles as though they were spelled out.
- Please note: The Style & Reference Manual is the final authority for scoring Competitive Events.

PRODUCTION STANDARDS

Criteria for the evaluation of computer-generated items

I. Method of Evaluation

- A. Contestant completion time will be used to determine ranking in case of a tie.
- B. The same evaluator determines the document's scoring level and calculates points earned.
- C. Another evaluator calculates and verifies total points earned.
- D. Left justification of documents is to be used unless otherwise indicated.
- E. Use a 12-point Times New Roman font unless otherwise indicated.
- F. Default line spacing should be single spaced.
- G. Default paragraph spacing before and after should be 0 pt.
- H. Spacing Guidelines:
 - One or two spaces may be used between the two-letter state abbreviation and the ZIP code.
 - One or two spaces may be used following the end of sentence punctuation.
 - One or two spaces may be used after a colon. For a dash, use either the dash key or two hyphens (no spaces before, between, or after).
- I. Spacing must be consistent throughout the document.
- J. A word cannot have more than one error; for example, the word "bokkepre" contains only one error.
- K. Software templates may be used where applicable but must be modified to meet the standards of Digital Solutions.
- L. A contestant may receive pro-rated credit for only one partially completed job.
- M. More than one style may be accepted if a model is not shown in the Style & Reference Manual.

II. Scoring/Errors

Five levels of scoring:

0 errors	(100% of assigned point value of each document)
1 error	(90% of assigned point value of each document)
2 errors	(70% of assigned point value of each document)
3 errors	(50% of assigned point value of each document)
4 or more errors	(0% of assigned point value of each document)

Each occurrence of the following counts as one error:

- 1. Misspelling
- 2. Typographical error
- 3. Grammatical error
- 4. Incorrect punctuation
- 5. Incorrect capitalization
- 6. Incorrect hyphenation
- 7. Addition of word(s)—each word added is an error
- 8. Omission of word(s)—each word omitted is an error
- 9. Omission of enclosure or attachment notation
- 10. Omission of reference initials
- 11. Omission of contestant number and/or job number (must have both right aligned in footer). If all or part is missing, count as one error.
- 12. Format error: If it is clearly evident that the Style & Reference Manual format is not followed, 0% of the assigned point value for that document is awarded. If it is clearly evident that an attempt was made to follow the Style & Reference Manual format, format mistakes will count as one error each

Business Plan (bold)

Business Plan Top Margin: 1" Side Margins: 1" Spacing of Body Text: SS
--

Part I—Executive Summary (bold)

(DS)

The Executive Summary describes the business plan in enough detail to encourage the reader to turn the page and read the information contained in the section that follows. You should pay close attention to what is written in this section. Often the reader will attempt to pass judgment based on what is contained in this part of the plan. With this in mind, the individual must generate a desire in the reader to want to invest and/or participate in the company. This is typically the last segment of the Business Plan to be written.

(DS)

Part II—Description of Proposed Business (bold)

(DS)

This section describes the company: what the company is, where the idea came from, and other information that will intrigue the reader.

(DS)

Part III—Objectives of the Business (bold)

(DS)

This section will contain the Mission and Vision statements of the company.

(DS)

Part IV—Proposed Business Strategies (bold)

(DS)

This section will touch on short-term goals and a long-range plan.

(DS)

Part V—Product(s) and/or Service(s) to be Provided (bold)

(DS)

The product and/or service to be provided by the company is described in this section. Included in this write-up could be an explanation as to why people will buy the product or service. What is unique about the product in relation to the competition is illustrated. Any special information about the product is shown in detail and a physical representation of the product or service needs to be presented (i.e., prototype or brochure).

(DS)

Part VI—Management and Ownership of the Business (bold)

(DS)

Create an organizational chart to identify the “key” players in the organization. Included are the company’s officers and their roles and responsibilities. Outside investors and contestants of the Board of Directors are identified. The descriptions of the company’s officers are to illustrate their competencies and qualifications for filling their roles.

(DS)

Part VII—Marketing Analysis (bold)

(DS)

This section of the plan describes the target market and why these individuals were chosen as the primary customers. Identifying your business and its competitive edge will be illustrated in this section. The target customer needs to be described. Methods of identifying and attracting customers, the type of sales force, and any specific distribution channels is to be included, as is the company’s pricing policy.

Part VIII—Financial Analysis (bold)(DS)

This section contains detailed financial information about the organization. The source of start-up cash and major capital expenditures is to be identified. This section will provide a balance sheet as it pertains to the opening day of business. This will define the financial standing and situation when the customer is served.

Note: The financial analysis section may be less detailed for Secondary students.)

(DS)Part IX—Supporting Documentation (bold)*(DS)

Include any and all information that supports your efforts in other sections. This may include layouts, brochures, flyers, business cards, résumés, product designs, prototypes, etc. These items and pages are not included in the total number of pages.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT (bold)
(DS)

This Employment Agreement ("Agreement") is made effective on January 1, 2027, between Digital Solutions ("Employer"), and John Doe ("Employee").

(DS)

1. Position & Duties (bold)

(DS)

The Employee agrees to serve as _____ and perform all duties customarily associated with this position. The Employee shall also comply with all applicable company policies and procedures, and perform any additional duties reasonably assigned by the Employer.

(DS)

2. Compensation (bold)

(DS)

The Employer agrees to pay the Employee a salary of _____ per year, payable in accordance with the Employer's standard payroll practices. All compensation will be subject to applicable federal, state, and local tax withholdings.

(DS)

3. Benefits (bold)

(DS)

Paid Time Off (PTO): (bold) Regular full-time associates accrue PTO monthly, based on years of service:

- Less than 5 years: 10 days/year
- 5 to 10 years: 15 days/year
- More than 10 years: 20 days/year PTO covers vacation, sick, and personal days. PTO must be approved in advance and taken in half-day or full-day increments.

(DS)

Sick Leave: (bold) PTO is used for sick days. Notification to your manager is required before scheduled work hours if you are sick or injured. The company may require a doctor's certificate

(DS)

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT

This Employment Agreement (“Agreement”) is made effective on January 1, 2027, between Digital Solutions (“Employer”), and John Doe (“Employee”).

1. Position & Duties

The Employee agrees to serve as Graphic Designer and perform all duties customarily associated with this position. The Employee shall also comply with all applicable company policies and procedures, and perform any additional duties reasonably assigned by the Employer.

2. Compensation

The Employer agrees to pay the Employee a salary of $70,000 per year, payable in accordance with the Employer’s standard payroll practices. All compensation will be subject to applicable federal, state, and local tax withholdings.

3. Benefits

Paid Time Off (PTO): Regular full-time associates accrue PTO monthly, based on years of service:

- Less than 5 years: 10 days/year
- 5 to 10 years: 15 days/year
- More than 10 years: 20 days/year PTO covers vacation, sick, and personal days. PTO must be approved in advance and taken in half-day or full-day increments.

Sick Leave: PTO is used for sick days. Notification to your manager is required before scheduled work hours if you are sick or injured. The company may require a doctor’s certificate

Paid Holidays: Full-time associates are eligible for paid holidays, including New Year’s Day, Thanksgiving, Martin Luther King Day, Memorial Day, Labor Day, Juneteenth, Christmas, Independence Day, and the day after Thanksgiving.

4. At-Will Employment

This Agreement does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specific duration. Employment with the Employer is at-will, meaning either the Employer or the Employee may terminate the employment relationship at any time, with or without cause or notice, except as otherwise provided in this Agreement or required by law.

5. Termination

Either party may terminate this Agreement with 30 days’ written notice. Upon termination, the Employee will be entitled to payment of all earned salary and accrued benefits through the last day of employment, as required by law.

6. Confidentiality & Non-Disclosure

The Employee agrees to maintain the confidentiality of all proprietary or confidential information belonging to the Employer, both during and after employment, and not to disclose such information to any third party without the Employer's prior written consent.

7. Governing Law

This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of Ohio.

Marketing Plan (bold)

Marketing Plan Top Margin: 1" Side Margins: 1" Spacing of Body Text: SS

Part I—Synopsis or Mini-plan (bold) (DS)

This section contains an Executive Summary. An Executive Summary defines and illustrates the content of the Marketing Plan. It should be no more than one page in length so as to allow the reader to determine his/her interest in reading the balance of the plan.

Part II—Company Goals (bold) (DS)

Included in this part of the Marketing Plan are the objective and/or goals established for the organization. There are items that will generally result in and/or produce outcomes for the company to achieve.

Part III—Description of Customers and Their Needs (bold) (DS)

This section should define the target market for your product/service. In order to sell products/services, marketing experts must understand the needs of consumers. Having a clear understanding of customer motivations will provide a clear direction for the overall marketing plan. Your market research should include the gathering of demographic information.

In the global market other considerations include communication, traditions, and customs, and buying habits. What does your research reveal about your target market?

Part IV—Description of Pricing Strategy (bold) (DS)

Pricing involves many factors. The marketing plan must include your rationale for price setting. Included in this section will be all the elements affecting the production process. Differentiate between fixed and variable costs as well as the break-even point. Profit margin should be established in this section.

Part V—Competition (bold) (DS)

In this section you provide a clear picture of the overall market. How many other firms/businesses offer the same product/service? What is your plan to win over the customer base when they have a clear choice between your offerings and the other firms/businesses? Is there a place for your business?

Part VI—Marketing Mix (bold) (DS)

A good marketing plan answers questions regarding the promotion of the product/service. Will it appeal to buyers? How much should it cost? How does the seller get information distributed to potential buyers? Where should the product/service be sold? How does this product/service appeal to consumers in other countries? This section should include the factors of price, promotion, and location.

Part VII—Economic, Social, Legal, and Technological Trends (bold)
(DS)

Key factors in these areas have a dramatic effect on the success or failure of a business. This section should include your research findings as they relate to the product/service you are marketing. Make sure your findings relate specifically to your marketing plan.

Part VIII—Human Resource Requirements (bold)
(DS)

What is the organizational structure of your business? This section should include an organization chart that defines management, supervision, and all levels of employment within your organization as well as job descriptions, required education and skills, and work experience requirements.

Part IX—Marketing Timeline (bold)
(DS)

No marketing plan can be implemented without a timeline for yourself and your employees. Include timeframes for implementation of the specific strategies included in your Marketing Plan. Detail employee responsibilities for the items in the timeframe. Timeframes can be as short as one week or as long as one year.

Part X—Methods of Measuring Success (bold)
(DS)

How will you determine the success of your marketing plan and your business?

Report Format

(DS)

Whether written for personal or business use, a report should present a message that is well organized, stated simply, and clear in meaning. A report that does not meet these criteria reflects a lack of planning and preparation.

Planning a Report

Three steps should be taken in planning a report. Selecting the topic is not merely the first step, but also the most important one. It is vital that you choose a topic in which you have sufficient interest to do the necessary related reading and research (LePoole 197).

Preparing the Report

The following three steps should be utilized in preparing the report:

1. Look for data and authoritative statements.
2. Prepare a rough draft of the report, organizing the data into a series of related paragraphs. A sentence that follows enumerated items within the same paragraph should begin at the left margin.
3. Read the rough draft carefully.

Whether the report is typed or printed, it should be neat and arranged in proper format. A neat report presented in an orderly style makes an immediate positive impression on the reader.

Social Media Marketing Campaign (bold)Part I—Executive Summary (bold)*(DS)

This section contains an Executive Summary. An Executive Summary defines and illustrates the content of the Social Media Marketing Campaign. It should be no more than one page in length to allow the reader to determine his/her interest in reading the balance of the plan.

Part II—Description of Event, Product, or Service (bold)(DS)

Included in this part of the Social Media Marketing Campaign is the description of the event, product, or service being held or offered to customers that the campaign will be highlighting. This section should include items such as location, specific offerings, customer needs/wants, and rough schedule of the event, product, or service, among other things.

Part III—Marketing Objectives (bold)(DS)

This section should define the marketing objectives set for this Social Media Marketing Campaign. Include specific goals, and how they will be achieved throughout the campaign. For each of the objectives listed in this section, explain how they pertain to the business at large, and why those specific objectives have been prioritized.

Part IV—Creative Content (bold)(DS)

Content comes in many different forms focused on many different audiences. Included in this section will be all the elements proposed to reach various stakeholders across the multiple social media platforms. Attention should be given to various formats (video, motion graphics, messaging). Include examples of content to be utilized in the campaign.

Part V—Content Strategy (bold)(DS)

In this section you provide a detailed description and explanation of the strategy that will be utilized to achieve the goals of the campaign. Describe in detail how these objectives align with the mission, values, and objectives of the business and how this specific content strategy will further advance that mission, values, and objectives.

Part VI—Campaign Budget (bold)(DS)

A well-rounded Social Media Marketing Campaign will prioritize the components of the campaign that have the best return on investment for the business. Describe how the specifically proposed budget will advance the Social Media Marketing Campaign and defend why you have been given the budget amount listed. This section should also go into depth about the effect and reach that this budget will create.

Graphic Standards and Branding Guidelines

The logo for Business Professionals of America has been carefully researched from a legal standpoint. The name is registered and the logo design protected by copyright and service mark. In order to obtain the maximum benefit from the image package, it must be used consistently throughout the organization — locally, regionally, statewide, and nationally. Additionally, the tagline, Giving Purpose to Potential, is registered and protected by copyright.

Name Identification

State Associations will be Business Professionals of America, (State) Association. Chapters will be identified as Business Professionals of America, (School Name) Chapter. The complete name will be spelled out in all written materials. The acronym BPA may be used in text once the complete name has been used.

The Tagline

The purpose of the organization's tagline is to serve as a linking device between our organization and our name. The official tagline is: Giving Purpose to Potential. To ensure that there is a clear communication of Business Professionals of America, the tagline may be used with the logo for printed pieces. However, this is not a requirement for use of the logo.

- The tagline can be used on one line or two lines, depending on the size and shape of the graphic piece.
- The tagline should appear in red when used with the primary logo, and in blue when used in conjunction to the banner logo. In other cases, where the printed piece is a one-color item, all art printed shall appear in white, black, gray, red, or navy.
- The type style to be used for the tagline is Century Gothic or Arial, upper and lower case, when used outside of the logo lockup.
- The tagline cannot appear in bold or italic.
- The tagline cannot be underlined.

The Logo

- The primary logo of Business Professionals of America includes the “bpa” mark on the left, a line separator, and the words “Business Professional of America” spelled out on the right.
- The logo may include the official tagline: Giving Purpose to Potential; however, it is not required.
- When the tagline is included with the primary logo, it should appear and align under the word “America”.
- Minimum distance kept around the logo should remain proportionate to the size of the logo based on the circumference of the rounded/circle shape of each letter in the “bpa” mark.
- The full-color logo must not be used on a contrasting color background or on a photo image. In these cases, the logo used should be a one-color treatment for visibility and clarity.
- The logo is not to have the mark and words stacked.
- The mark cannot be one full color and the words a different full color — it must follow proper use when in full-color format.
- When in full-color format, the text cannot deviate from the primary logo color scheme.
- The full-color, primary logo must include the line separator.
- The one-color version can only be printed in blue, red, black, gray, or white.
- If two colors are used, they must be the approved blue and red colors from the primary color palette. No other two-color version is permitted.
- Usage of the mark without wording is permitted in some formats, including in social and other digital media.
- The mark can appear with or without a circle encompassing it.
- When using the mark within the circle to identify a state or chapter, the name is not to appear inside the circle and/or above the “bpa” mark. States and chapters are to appear under the mark within the circle and the font color used should be the approved PMS color blue from either the primary or secondary color palette. There is a primary and a secondary color palette identified for the corporate color scheme as it relates to the logo of Business Professionals of America. The color scheme for the full color logo is blue and red. The two-color logo is to be used whenever your budget allows, using PMS ink. (See below)
- The one-color version of the logo should ideally be navy blue; if your budget for the printed publication does not allow for a colored ink, black, gray, or white are also acceptable.

- When the logo is printed in full color with the tagline, the tagline must be red.
- If the logo is printed in one color (blue, red, black, gray, or white), the tagline (if used) must be printed in the same color.

To reduce the occurrence of inconsistent color, all printed pieces are to be printed with Pantone Matching System (PMS) ink. The official PMS colors are to be used in every case except in full-color situations.

The PMS colors are as follows:

When creating artwork for computer web pages, computer presentations, etc., the color compositions for RGB (Red, Green, Blue) may be needed if you are composing in that format. They are as follows:

Typography

The official type design of Business Professionals of America are non-system fonts that include Josefin Sans Bold, and Neutraface Text Book. However, system fonts have also been approved for use in cases when states and chapters do not have access to the official non-system fonts. To complement the Business Professionals of America logo, Arial or Century Gothic may be used. Both fonts offer many variations, i.e., bold, light and italic. Suggested usage includes:

- Arial Bold or Century Gothic Bold, Arial Bold Italic or Century Gothic Bold Italic, should be used for headlines on corporate publications, exterior/interior signage, banners, and posters.
- Arial or Century Gothic are to be used for body copy on all Business Professionals of America publications whether on the local, state, or national level.

Official Emblem

The Business Professionals of America emblem is one of long-standing tradition. The emblem is to be used for ceremonial purposes only. The emblem may be used for the Emblem Building Ceremony and portions of the Opening and Closing Ceremonies at the local, state, or national level.

Ambition. Leadership. Sociability. Poise.

The four points of the BPA shield stand for Ambition, Leadership, Sociability, and Poise. The shield itself stands for honor and dignity and the importance of business in America. The stripes represent education, citizenship, loyalty, patriotism, competency, and dependability. The bar represents the service provided by employees in business occupations. The quill and inkwell represent the stability of business occupations through the ages and the torch represents worthy goals.

The official colors of the shield are navy blue, red, and tan.

Printing Tip Do:

- Follow the graphic standards printed in this booklet.
- Contact the National Center if there is the slightest doubt as to the procedures outlined.
- Use the artwork provided for reproduction; additional artwork is available from the National Center at cost.
- Use the corporate logo and tagline as outlined in the official Brand Guide of the National Center.
- Use the corporate colors — PMS colors and numbers.

Don't:

- Substitute the emblem for the corporate logo.
- Substitute other colors for the corporate colors.
- Alter the design of the corporate logo or official emblem in any manner.
- Alter, add, or delete any part of the logo, tagline, or emblem.

Note: Color separations and complete graphic standards are available from the National Center.

Home Page/Multimedia Graphic Standards

The graphic standards for the printed page should be observed in Internet, website, or multimedia presentation creation, whenever possible.

The rules for official logo colors should be observed. If PMS colors or RGB formulas are not available options with your software and only preset color choices are available, then the nearest approximations to the official logo colors should be chosen.

If animation is employed, the logo may change or evolve during animation, but its final state should be either the one- or two-color version of the logo without any distortion or color change.

Third dimension or depth may be added to the logo if it does not greatly distort the logo or change its color.

As in the standards for the printed page, subdued colors which convey a “business look” should be used.

Copyright & Fair Use Guidelines

Intellectual Property Guidelines

General Information About These Guidelines

- The U.S. Copyright Act provides that only the copyright holder has the right to reproduce, distribute, display, perform, or make derivatives of a copyrighted work.
 - An exception to this rule is called “fair use.” Four factors courts use to decide whether an unauthorized use of a copyrighted work is “fair use” (and therefore permitted even though the copyright owner has not granted permission) are: (1) the purpose and character of the use, i.e., if the work is used only for educational purposes, it is more likely to be considered fair use, and if the use of the work is transformative (not mere copying), it is more likely to be considered fair use; (2) the nature of the copyrighted work itself, i.e., if the work is published, use of that work is more likely to be deemed fair use because the author has had the opportunity to control its first publication, also if the work is primarily factual in nature, then use of it is more likely to be deemed fair use; (3) the amount of the copyrighted work used, i.e., if a small amount of the copyrighted work is copied, then it is more likely to be considered fair use; and (4) whether the use of the copyrighted work has a significant effect on the market for the work, i.e., if the use would not replace sales of the work that would otherwise occur, it is more likely to be deemed fair use.
 - Educational use is not automatically fair use, so you should follow the guidelines below to ensure your use does not violate a copyright owner’s rights.
 - Always ask yourself whether something that is not your own could be copyright protected – if it is music, a movie clip, or a photo created by someone else, it could be.
 - Any materials you use in your presentation must have been legitimately acquired, meaning that whatever source the materials are taken from cannot themselves have been engaging in copyright infringement (for instance, use of a video that was clearly videotaped on a phone in a movie theater and then posted on the internet would not be advisable, as that taping in the movie theater and posting of the video on the internet likely violated the rights of the owner(s) of the copyright to the movie).
 - Works published before the specific date of January 1, 1923, are in the public domain, so you can use these works freely without permission.
 - The following rules apply only to use of materials in your BPA presentation, and not for any other purpose.
- No matter what, always credit all of your sources. This is important to avoid any potential plagiarism concerns. Where the information is available, include the copyright notice, for instance: “Excerpt from ____© 2024 XYZ Publishing Co.”

These guidelines are intended, but are not promised or guaranteed, to be correct, complete and up-to-date. However, they may not reflect all recent legal developments and may not apply to the specific circumstances of individual situations.

Trademark Guidelines

- A trademark may consist of a word, phrase, logo, symbol, design, sound, or combination of any of those listed (such as Google®, the Nike® Swoosh, the shape of the Coca-Cola® bottle, and sports logos). A trademark owner can register a trademark only in particular categories of goods or services for which it is using the mark.
- Trademarks are not a significant concern in the context of your BPA competition submission because infringement typically occurs when a trademark is used in connection with the sale of products or services, whereas here the use would be as a reference to describe the products or services.
- If you are concerned about the use of a trademark, you could refer to the product or service without including the logo.
- Be sure to use the registration symbol (“®”) where appropriate.

Copyright Guidelines - Specific Types of Material

What Is Covered	What You Can Use
Printed Materials
• Poems • Stories • Essays • Articles • Picture, chart or illustration in a book • Books	• You may incorporate text into your project as follows without seeking permission of the copyright owner (but you must always include a citation to your source). If you use more content than is noted here, you will need to seek permission of the copyright holder. ○ 10% of work or 1,000 words, whichever is less ○ Articles, stories, or essays less than 2,500 words ○ Poem of less than 250 words in its entirety ○ Excerpt of 250 words from a poem of greater than 250 words ○ One chart, picture, diagram, graph, cartoon, or picture per book or per periodical issue ○ Up to two pages from an illustrated work less than 2,500 words (such as a children’s book) • “Consumables,” such as workbooks or standardized tests, may not be copied.

What Is Covered	What You Can Use
Illustrations and Photographs
• Photograph (e.g., from Google Images) • Illustration • Collections of photographs • Collections of illustrations	• Single images (such as those on Google® Images) may be used in their entirety without seeking permission, but you will need to seek permission to use more than five images by a single artist or photographer. Regardless, you must always credit your source, i.e., the website from which the image was taken. This likely does not mean Google® (if you ran a Google Image search), but rather the website where the picture was posted. • From a collection, not more than 15 images or 10 percent (whichever is less) may be used without seeking permission (though you must credit your source). • If you are using an image you found on Pinterest® or Instagram®, try to determine who is the owner of the image and, if necessary according to the rules set forth above, seek that person’s permission to use it. Do not assume whoever posted the image is the owner. (Although Pinterest’s Terms of Service do allow you to share/use photos that are posted by others, that right is limited to use on Pinterest.) • If you are using an image you found on Twitter® or Facebook®, determine if the person who posted it is the owner of the image. If so, you may use it without seeking permission. This is because Twitter® and Facebook®’s Terms of Service, unlike Pinterest®’s and Instagram®’s, allow you to share photos that are posted by others. If the person who posted it does not own the image, however, you should determine who owns the rights to the image and seek permission if necessary under the rules described above. • Again, regardless of whether permission to use an image is necessary, always cite your source.
Video or “Motion” Media
• DVDs • Movie or TV show clips from the Internet	• The material must be legitimately acquired (a legal copy, not illegally downloaded, bootleg or home recording). • You may use 10% or three minutes (whichever is less) of “motion media” without seeking permission (though, as always, cite your source). • Videos from websites ending in .gov are public domain and therefore may be used without seeking permission (though cite your source). • If you are creating your own video from clips of other copyrighted videos, the video must be “transformative,” i.e., a new use of the original video such as a commentary on or criticism of it, as opposed to simply a reuse of the original video. Use only as much of each copyrighted video as necessary. • If the video is from YouTube®, Facebook®, or another site where users generate content, be especially careful to determine if it was posted by the creator. If so, you can use up to 10% or three minutes of it (whichever is less) without seeking permission but be sure to cite your source. If it is a re-posting by a third party, determine whether the original is available from another source. Do not include a video you have reason to believe infringes a copyright in your presentation (a “bootleg” video recording, for example).

What Is Covered	What You Can Use
Music
• CDs/Tapes/Records • Audio from the Internet • Electronic music files such as MP3s • Sheet Music	• Up to 10%, but no more than 30 seconds (whichever is less), of the sheet music or recording from an individual musical work may be used without seeking permission (but always credit your source). If you use an entire song, you likely need to seek permission for the use. • There is a separate copyright for the musical composition (i.e., sheet music of a song) and the recording of a song. In other words, even if you only include portions of sheet music or change the lyrics of a song, you should adhere to these guidelines. The copyright to the sheet music of a song may be owned by a different person than the owner of the copyright for a particular recording of a song.
Computer Software
• Software (purchased or licensed)	• If you are using a framework that helps you build your software from scratch (such as Game Engine), you likely do not need to worry about copyright concerns unless the framework permits you to import portions of someone else's software. • Software is copyrightable, so if your presentation uses someone else's software, you need to be protected either by fair use or the terms of a license the copyright holder might have granted to a third party. ○ Fair use will likely apply if you use only small portions of the software and the end result is transformative. ○ You should also check to see if the copyright owner of the software has licensed it such that third parties like you are permitted to use it. ○ If in doubt, do not include pre-existing software in your own software competition entry.
Data Sets (Such as Spreadsheet Entries)
• Spreadsheet (e.g., Excel document) • Tables	• You may use up to 10% or 2,500 fields or cell entries, whichever is less, without seeking permission. Always credit your source, however.
